

Environmental Justice

“We unite with the Holy Father in upholding the Church’s teaching that creation is a precious gift of God intended to be shared by all. To protect this gift, as the world races towards a sustainable future, we must not forget those who suffer the greatest from ecological degradation. Climate leadership requires finding common ground in the pursuit of the common good, for the entire planet is our one ‘common home.’”

The above is an excerpt from a letter issued in October 2021 by Archbishop Paul S. Coakley of Oklahoma City, chairman of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops’ (USCCB) Committee on Domestic Justice and Human Development, and Bishop David J. Malloy of Rockford, chairman of the USCCB’s Committee on International Justice and Peace, together with Mr. Sean Callahan, president and CEO of Catholic Relief Services (CRS).

Explore the website link below for the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops to learn more and make a commitment to do your part!

<https://www.usccb.org/issues-and-action/human-life-and-dignity/environment/index.cfm#tab--latest-information>

